

LUNENBURG'S FLEET.

The Gloucester of Nova Scotia Builds Many Vessels.

Lunenburg has had a most successful year in shipbuilding. The registrar of shipping reports for the year ending December 31, 1901, shows that 42 vessels, 4,343 tons net, were added to the register. Thirty-four vessels, 2,636 tons net, were struck off, leaving an increase for the year of eight vessels, 1,707 tons net. Only five vessels were wrecked or otherwise lost out of the total number struck off, the balance, 29 vessels, having been transferred to other ports or sold to foreigners. The total on the books, December 31, 1901, is 203 vessels, 30,378 tons gross, 27,524 tons net.

Herring Notes.

At Bay of Islands, N. F., a number of fishermen have given up the herring fishery, owing to loss of their fishing gear.

Captains of a number of our herring fleet which arrived at Louisburg last week state that the past fortnight has been the worse time to go eastwardly than they have ever seen.

New Fishing Device.

James Dill, of Provincetown, has invented a new device for taking fish. The new scheme is a floating trap, and can be set from any vessel and is on the same principle as the stationary traps, only there are no poles required. The trap or bowl is put overboard, and a leader is run out some distance from the bow of the vessel where it is attached, the leeward drift of the vessel keeping the apparatus in place. A patent has been applied for.

Herring Notes.

ap herring

A telegram from Fortune Bay, N. F., this morning reports the herring prospect very poor there. Herring are scarce. There are none frozen and 15 vessels are waiting for cargoes.

Our city is certainly

THE entitled through her FRESH FISH people and her press to BUSINESS. hearty commendation for the efforts made to control her fresh fish catch and have it converted into an industry which would move the city along in the path of prosperity. But for some unexplainable reason our fresh fish manipulators have not seconded these efforts and they have not proved the success which was anticipated.

And now comes the new city council, buoyant with hope and zealous to accomplish something in this direction, and they have unanimously passed resolutions inviting the fresh fish dealers at T wharf, who it is asserted are to change their location, instead of remaining anywhere in Boston, to come down here, the best place on earth for the establishment of the business, and put their brains and capital at work in this direction.

A competent committee have been appointed to wait upon these dealers and confer with them upon the subject, and use every honorable means to get them to locate here. This committee are to report at the earliest possible time and the result of their efforts is looked forward to with considerable interest.

There are many in this community who entertain a favorable opinion of such an interview. At all events no harm can grow out of it. The Boston dealers are to make a change of location which will involve a large expenditure of money. Here in Gloucester it is asserted they can find accommodations at reasonable rates and certainly this is the natural port to land the catch. If they would combine in this, and it is hardly probable that they will do anything without combination, something favorable may come out of it yet. At any event there will be no harm in trying.

The joint select committee consists of His Honor, Mayor French, President of the Common Council Ray S. Friend, Aldermen McQuin and Lothrop, Councillmen Gorman and Foster of ward one, and Poland.

MUST BE PROTECTED.

Unless Change in Law Lobster Fishery Will be Ruined.

Capt. William H. Proctor of the district police, in command of the steamer Lexington, has made his annual report to Chief Wade.

Relative to the lobster fishery he says: "The lobster business continues the same as in former years. The fishermen continue to catch and destroy the small ones, and, as I have reported several times before, if there is not some different law to protect them, the business will go to ruin. A close season from Jan. 1 to July 1, or a regulation of the traps that are used, would, in my opinion, help the situation and could be enforced."

Capt. Proctor says that he has noticed more menhaden steamers in Buzzard Bay the past season than for several years, but no attempt to his knowledge had been made to set a seine in the bay.
